AN ARCTIC RAILWAY.

THE LAPP'S QUERY AS HIS REIN DEER HOME IS INVADED.

A Great Feat of Locomotion Due to English and Scotch Enterprise—A Mountain of Ore—Picturesque Scenery—Some Curious Remarks.

A railway within the Arctic circle is now a well-known fact, and to Englishmen and Scotchmen is due this great feat of locomotion which will connect the Gulf of Bothnia with a very high latitude on the Norwegian coast, but with open water all the year round on the North Sea. Gellwara just now is the center of great activity, for the Swedish and Norwegian railway has brought the iron-haunted ore of its mountains to the shores of the Gulf of Bothnia, and a small fleet of English steamers daily await the morning and evening trains at Lulea, which bring from 400 to 500 tons of ore, drawn by a powerful engine of North British manufacture, whilst 10,000 or 12,000 tons of northern coal stands piled upon the railway quays. The Swedes in Norrbotten are not altogether friendly to this great undertaking, but the Swedish government wisely recognizes the great results which English contractors and British capital have secured for what was practically an inaccessible district, and where for over eighty years the wealth of the mineral district has been recognized, but there has been no mode of conveyance which could bring it to the highways of commerce.

The mountain itself is some 300,000 acres in area, and wherever you turn on its face, and even on its summit, traces of the ore are to be found, sometimes at the highest levels protruding, or at the lower workings at a very few feet from the surface. The railway company are themselves working the mines or lodes, which are situated on different parts of the mountains, and from which small railway lines descend to the line which for five miles steadily ascends the mountains from Gellwara, where even a grand hotel is being erected, and a new church is already complete, in which all nationalities, including the Lapps, meet for service. Although the railway is not yet open for passenger traffic, a portion was secured to the journey to the mines by the co-operation of the director at Lulea, Mr. Henry Millard, and although Pullman cars have not yet been transported to these northern latitudes, a very laudable attempt had been made to transport a break van into a sleeping car, when I passed two nights on my journey up and down.

Starting from the town and port of Lulea, which, like so many other Swedish towns, has been laid low by fire, the train skirts for miles the side of the Gulf of Bothnia, and passes the remarkable old church of Gamle Stad, an edifice boasting eight centuries of antiquity, and with a carved and gilded trophy of such remarkable beauty and delicacy that $2,000 has been offered and refused by the parish for the unique specimen of Flemish carving. I was present at the monthly communion of the parish, and was much struck with the solemn demeanor of the peasants, as man and wife walked to the altar together and received the communion in both kinds in their mouth, but without being allowed to touch the elements of the bread and wine. At Gellwara was sung by a choir in the gallery. At Gellwara there is an old but not very interesting ruin, now abandoned, as it is full of human remains, and a new and modern building stands about 150 yards from the railway station.

The road to this wonderful center of enterprise and activity traverses a district which wonderfully reminds the traveler of the country between Port Arthur and Winnipeg on the Canadian Pacific railway, but the view from Gellwara itself is much more interesting and monumental than can be seen on the Canadian side of the Rocky mountains. The mountain itself from which the railway draws its ore is 3,000 feet above the sea level, and the view from its summit discloses a series of hills and mountains stretching to the Norwegian frontier, towards which the track is being steadily laid. A number of the houses of Gellwara are one of the railway directors, and Messrs. William and Jarvis, of Victoria street, Westminster, are the energetic contractors to whose pluck and determination, amid many discouragements of local disputes, this great work of crossing the Arctic Circle by railway has been accomplished. When the line has been completed to Ofoten it will be the recognized route by which tourists, who have ascended the North Cape, can cross the Norwegian mountain ranges and return southward to Stockholm by rail or water from Lulea, where the Swedish and Norwegian railway now terminates, but from which there will be a connection with the Sundsvall route to Stockholm at Boden.

The mind of local editors and local pressmen is proverbially small, and it is amusing to read in the Norrbotten Journal of the "petrid" attempts to save Sweden from the grasp of foreign intruders, but it is only through English capital and British enterprise that the great forests of the north of Sweden have been utilized for the European market, and that this remarkable railway communication has been begun, continued, and will ere long, I believe, be successfully ended, not very far removed from the most northern town in the world. One remarkable fact I learnt at a lodge where eight Scotch miners were at work, that at the same price for piece work as paid to Swedes, they had secured seven kroners per diem (8 7/10), and the Swedes never get beyond three. The most curious remark made by the Lapps, who come down to see the engines draw in their loads of coal and draw out their loads of ore. "Is this coal from heaven?" is the first query of the Lapp bolder as he sees his reindeer home at last invaded.—Cor. London Post.

Weaving Glass into Cloth.

Mr. Dubus Bonnet, of Lille, France, has invented a process of spinning and weaving glass into cloth. The warp is composed of silk, forming the body and groundwork, on which the pattern in glass appears, as effected by the web. The requisite flexibility of glass thread for manufacturing purposes is to be secured by extreme fineness, as not less than from fifty to sixty of the original strands are required to form one thread of the web. The process is slow, for no more than a yard of cloth can be produced in twelve hours. The work, however, is extremely beautiful and comparatively cheap. A French paper, commenting on the discovery, says: "When we figure to ourselves an apartment decorated with cloth of glass and repandules, with light, we must be convinced that it will be equal in brilliancy all that the imagination can conceive and realize in a word, the wonders of the enchanted palaces mentioned in the Arabian tales."—Scientific American.

Viviparous Fishes of Florida.

It is a fact of interest to naturalists that in all the fresh waters of Florida are found fishes that bring forth their young alive and perfect. Instead of laying eggs in the manner of the many tribes generally, the parents fishes are very small, being only from one and a half to two inches long, and are often used for bait for bass. The exact name of the genus and species is not yet known, but the books mention several species of goby as being viviparous, like the specimens here mentioned.—Scientific News.

WEST DULUTH.

A large number of West Enders attend the meeting at the opera house Saturday night and were enthusiastic over the speeches by Messrs Evans & Byrnes. This part of the city will give its usual rousing Republican majority.

"Great conspiracy" was the subject of Rev. T. M. Findlay at the Second Baptist church yesterday. The discourse was able and interestingly listened to by good sized congregation.

Sunday was very quiet in the West End and many people enjoyed the day by riding Third street was the scene of numerous vehicles.

The funeral of Francis Fish the boy who was killed by the cars, was held yesterday afternoon at one o'clock.

You can buy stoves at cost at Knobloch's, 2022 West Superior street. Call and look at them.

A runaway on Piedmont avenue this morning resulted in a badly smashed wagon.

J. T. Morry, of Minneapolis spent Sunday here in the Clarion.

SONG FOR MUSIC.

Count the fishes in the surf,
Count the crystals in the air,
Or the blades across the turf,
Or the dead that sleep in care.

These may count yet not know,
I sleep or while I slumber,
Where my thoughts and wishes go,
What her name and what their number.

Ask the cold and midnight sea,
Ask the grasses on the shore,
Or the dead that sleep in care,
They may tell of love and sorrow.

To the waves where dusky bow no,
Fall of leaves that stand and lose,
But me and mine they know not,
—Edmund Gosse's Longman's Magazine.

CURIOUS MARRIAGE CUSTOMS.

Among the People of the New Britain Group—Romantic Ceremony.

At the meeting of the British association at Bath, the Rev. R. Danks read a paper on "Marriage Customs of the New Britain Group." He said that marriage was performed among the people of New Britain in two classes of districts. No man may marry a woman of his own class. To do so would bring instant destruction upon the woman, and if not immediate death to the man, his life would never be secured. Preparations for marriage are various. On Banks of York Island initiation into the secret society, which is called Dukuk, seems a sufficient preparation (though not absolutely necessary) for marriage for the boys and there appears to be no useful preparation for the girls. On New Ireland some girls wear a fringe of human hair round their necks until they are marriageable. These are the proper cases.

Others are put into cages, in which they remain four or five years without being allowed to go outside the houses in which they are confined. These cages are conical structures, about 7 or 8 feet in height and about 10 or 12 feet in circumference at the bottom, and about four feet from the ground, where they taper off to a point at the top. They are made of the broad leaves of the pandanus tree, sewn close together, so that no light and very little air can enter. On a double door is opened which is closed by one side of plaited pandanus bark and the other by a mat of palm leaves. The position on the bamboo platform, and her feet are never allowed to touch the ground as they are in the cage. Great marriage feasts are provided for these girls when they are taken out of the cages.

Wives are purchased with shell money, and are often married at a very early age on Banks of York Island. A man marries a second wife, after the death of the first, the female relatives of the dead wife gather together and are permitted to do as much damage to his property as they can. A man may have as many wives as he can purchase, but if he cannot afford to buy one, and his credit is low, he must have a common single. Sir John Lubbock says: "In some parts of Australia when a man married one of the tribe's relatives, he was welcomed with a stout stick by way of a warm welcome into the family." Among the Kaituma of central Australia the marriage ceremony was very romantic. The girl was put on a horse and rode at full speed. When she had got a fair start the bridegroom, in pursuit of her, rode after her. If he caught her she became his wife, but if he could not overtake her the match was broken off, and he had to remain single. A CRIST OF PATENTS.

A TOTAL OF THREE HUNDRED AND FIFTY LAND PATENTS RECEIVED AT THE DULUTH OFFICE.

Saturday 300 land patents for homesteads and preemptions in the Duluth land district were received from the general land office at Washington. Fifty others had been received a few days before making a total of 350 claims in this district taken out of the office and given by clear title to the owners. This desirable consummation has been in great part due to the efforts of a Duluth attorney, Fielder B. Chase, formerly a resident of Washington, who spent nearly two months at Washington this summer on this business. Ever since the famous order of Sparks was issued, ordering all unpatented claims in the Duluth district being up in the division of lands in the general land office, because there were undoubtedly many in which fraud was undoubtedly present, the business of this office has dragged, and the honest homesteaders and pre-emptors have suffered great hardships and losses by the inability to recover title and the inability among capitalists caused by this inability. Mr. Chase went to Washington nearly three months ago and spent two months there arguing and working the case and finally, three weeks ago, succeeded in securing a rescinding of the order. The "division of lands," in which were hung up every patent in this entire land district whether suspected of fraud or not was notified to pass on all against which there were no specific allegations of fraud. As a result 300 homesteads and preemptions were moved out of the division, and patents were issued last week to that number, against which there were only general suspicions of fraud in the minds of Sparks and his coadjutors. Contested cases and those charged with specific fraud are held and will not be patented until special investigation reveals them honest. Hereafter patents will be issued as fast as the ordinary course of business allows on all claims to be entered at the office, and the general business of the entire Duluth district will be aided and encouraged greatly.

In connection with the recent beaching of the Joseph L. Hurd at Eagle Harbor, in a sinking condition, says an exchange, a story is going the rounds which possesses significant interest. It is said that one of the owners of the steamer was on board of her recently and was peering down into the open hatchway when the captain approached and warned him not to fall down there, assuring him that if he did he would fall clear through the bottom of the boat.

MATTERS POLITICAL.

Good speakers will be at the young men's Republican club meeting tonight. The Democratic Mesaba club is announced to meet at Ingle's hall at 10 o'clock. The colored Republicans meet again today to discuss the political situation. The French Canadians met as announced in St. Paul Saturday night and several speeches were made.

Frank Burke has some campaign songs which are immense and he is going to get up a quartette soon and sing them for the benefit of the people.

The English literature with the utterances of "John Bull" papers thereon discuss the Democrats. There is too much truth in them to suit the disciples of English Grover.

General Harrison's picture is in such great demand in Duluth that some one stole the one that is placed in the window of the Young Men's Republican club nearly every day.

Fra. Lytle, president of the Polish societies of the United States, will speak here Saturday of this week. He is an able man and will draw a large audience of Poles in this city.

METHODS OF THE CO-OPERATIVE ESTABLISHMENT AT LIEGE.

A Peculiar Scheme of Industrial Distribution—Division Between Capital, Labor, Talent and "Nature"—How the Stock Changes Hands—Results.

As with his social palace, so in his scheme of industrial distribution, M. Godin's ideas were colored by Fourierist recollections. Before 1880 M. Godin had merely set apart a certain sum—£8,000 or £10,000—out of the profits of the year to be distributed among the workers as a bonus, but in 1880 he converted the business into a commandite company, and introduced a complicated system of arrangements for realizing effectively Fourier's principle of a just division of the produce of industry, the division between capital, labor and talent, according to the importance of their several contributions. It is true he thought this principle theoretically defective, because talent was only a particular kind of labor, and because nature, which Fourier wholly ignored, was, in Godin's opinion, as important a contributor to production as any of the other three. Nature's share in the division ought, he thought, to be appropriated by the state, partly by means of the nationalization of land for the purpose of letting it out to all sorts of productive societies, and partly by means of a heavy graduated succession duty; and the funds thus obtained ought to be employed in establishing a system of universal insurance against sickness, old age and vicissitudes generally. But in the meantime, so long as the laws of private inheritance and private property in land remained unmodified, and the state showed no disposition to serve itself heir to nature's share, individual producers must each and every share for themselves, and consequently the first part in M. Godin's second division is 35 per cent. of the whole annual profits to a reserve fund for purposes of personal insurance. In passing I may say that besides this every workman is obliged to pay to his fund 2 per cent. on his wages, that in 1880 the fund amounted to 500,000 francs, and in the three years it had existed at that time more than 60,000 francs had been paid out of it for sick relief and pensions on comfortable scale.

Next to nature's deal comes the deal of talent or intelligence, and that also is fixed at 35 per cent. The director alone (M. Godin during his lifetime got and gets 12 1/2 per cent. of the profits, in addition to his salary of 10,000 francs. In 1888 this 12 1/2 per cent. amounted to more than four times his salary. Half the profits going thus in equal shares to nature and intelligence, the other half remaining to be divided between the factors of capital and labor. Capital had already received 6 per cent. interest, and labor had of course already received its weekly wages, all before there was any calculation of profit at all, and M. Godin concluded that the proper principle now was to give capital a share of the remaining half of the profits in proportion to the amount of interest it received, and labor in proportion to the wages it had received. In 1888 the total amount of interest paid was 200,000 francs on 4,600,000 francs of capital, and the total wages paid was 1,888,000 francs, so that of this remaining half of the profits some nine-tenths go to the deal of labor.

M. Godin's scheme, however, by no means ends here; his object was to make the employees in the final result owners of the capital of the business, and with this view he decided that the laborer's share of the profits should not be paid immediately into their hands, to be used at their discretion, but should be applied to buy for them shares in the business. In this way the business is gradually falling into the hands of the laborers engaged in it. In 1888 they already possessed stock amounting to nearly two millions of francs, and though the capital has been raised to 6,000,000 francs, it will only take a few more years for it to be acquired entirely by the employees. The interest on the shares they possess they receive like their wages, to spend as they will.

M. Godin states in his book on government, that the average amount of indirect taxation on articles of consumption paid per franc in the families of France is seventy-five francs, and turning to books of statistics we find that the average for France generally is only thirty francs. The people of the families live, therefore, two and a half times better than the rest of the French. Their working day is ten hours, and they have besides common holidays, two special feast days of their own every year—the Feast of Labor on the first Sunday in May and the Feast of Infancy on the first Sunday in September.

The director, who at the head of the whole place, is an autocrat in all business affairs. He is elected—that is, since 1880—but he is elected for life, and his management is uncontrolled. He chooses the foremen and makes the bargains. Next below him stand the group that elect him, the associates, numbering sixty-eight in 1888, who must have worked at least five years in the foundry, be men of good education and statistics, life and possess not less than 500 francs of capital in the business. Their privileges are large, like their requirements. They elect themselves by co-optation, share in the profits on twice their wages, can only be expelled from the association by a vote of two-thirds of their own peers (the other associates, have the first right to work when work is short and raise on a pension of two-thirds of their wages or salaries. After them come minor-directors, chosen by the manager and administrative council, sharing the profits on one and one-half times their wages, and getting a pension on one-third of them; 573 participants, similarly chosen, and sharing on their single wages only; 188 auxiliaries, who as yet get no share in the profits, except through their interest in the insurance fund, and 350 apprentices, who are allowed to retain stock they have inherited, though they have no further interest in the concern.

The stock, which is only being gradually taken up year by year, must, when it is all taken up, be again parted with in the same way, the first shareholders being then obliged to sell out their shares to the new comers. During the interval the shares may apparently be held by widows or other persons not in active employment, but at the end of the term they must always return to the possession of actual laborers, and so the way is smoothed for the retirement of the older generation and the accession of the younger.

THE PARSONS BLOCK.

A MAGNIFICENT STRUCTURE NOW BEING CONSTRUCTED—A CREDIT TO THE ARCHITECTS, YOUNG & SHAW.

Work on the Parsons block is being pushed to completion as fast as possible, and in a few days the walls will be carried up to the top of the building. The plans show a very handsome front of four to the full height and the roof top. The stories on Superior street and five on Michigan street 24x110 feet. The columns of the Michigan street side at the sides are laid up with South Shore stone rock faces. Iron columns and plate glass will constitute the front finish of the store. Above the store the front is laid up with red pressed brick laid in black mortar with sandstone window sill courses in every story, projecting arches above the windows, and presents a handsome, attractive and most appropriate when viewed from Michigan street and Lake avenue, and will add much to the aspect of that part of the city.

The Superior street front will be the main feature of attraction, the architects, Young & Shaw, say they are going to show the finest design of a front in the city on this side of Chicago. The front elevation shows a complete iron and glass front from the ground to the cornice. Each story will be fitted from the floor to the ceiling with plate glass. There will be a recessed entrance on the floor and one below the ceiling, which will afford ample ventilation to the rooms. The stories on Superior and also on Michigan street will be fitted with a front-proof glass front. The show windows will be so constructed that even on the coldest day of winter no frost will adhere to the glass, thus evading the difficulty which must of the merchants experience in this country where we have extreme weather.

The front corner is laid up with cut stone and pressed brick. The front elevation shows a fine and artistic cornice, which will be made of galvanized iron. The top of the cornice will be finished with an iron cresting and finials. Between the brackets in the center in a scroll design will appear the name "Parsons, 1888," in raised letters. Messrs. Barrett & Little have the contract for the cornice and the interior will be finished in hardwood of the latest design. The ceiling of Superior street store will be laid off in panels, squares, etc., and will be occupied by the Eagle Clothing company. The second story will be used for a millinery or tailoring establishment. Professor Parsons will have his private office in the center. The third story will be used by Mr. Parsons as a business center. The counting room will occupy the whole of the third story. At first it was not intended by the owners to have the fourth story, but after they saw the elevation and plans they concluded to finish it up on Superior street. In fact the building has shown the design of a building that is a credit to any city, and we hope it will not be long before some more of these wooden structures are replaced by just such structures as Professor Parsons and his partners are having erected.

AMUSEMENTS.

Johnson and Shavin. New York Daily News—Manager Moses to be congratulated on his exquisite taste displayed in everything he has had done and in nothing more than he has exhibited in securing the opening attraction—Johnson and Shavin's minstrel, who will entertain the reputation they have achieved and a splendid entertainment was given. It was clean, novel and sparkling. There were fewer "chanteuses" springing from the audience than usual in minstrel troupes, and the new jokers were full of point and humor. Carroll Johnson did a little "silly" and, as usual, did it well; and Bob Shavin was as old and peculiarly funny as ever. Flueger, Dougherty and Jay Quigley helped along the long fight. The singing by F. B. Malvern and Harry Brown, the two leaders of the evening. The Crawford Brothers, Will Stevens and Harry Brown were very good. The band and orchestra, called "The Five of the Middle" was a remarkable unit and clever act. The afterpiece, "The Lost Ark, or the Island of Pookah," proved to be a very comical skit. There is no much that is new and clever in this entertainment that an evening with Johnson and Shavin is a treat.

A MIDNIGHT MISHAP.

THE PROPELLER MINNEAPOLIS AND TWO WALKERS COLLIDED TO THE DAMAGE OF THE WALKER.

The big Canadian tug Walker is in hard times. Three trips ago on entry to Duluth harbor she was fined $250 for violation of the custom laws, last trip she lost the schooner Brandon loaded with 1,100 tons of English steel rails just outside the harbor and through no fault of hers, and now she is badly damaged by collision with an incoming steamer. About 11 o'clock last night she was starting out of the harbor towing her schooner, the Glenora, the coal laden steamer Minneapolis was bound in. Owing to some misunderstanding, the Glenora given by either boat the Minneapolis striking the Walker in twisting blow on her stern and stripping part of her hull. The stations causing a bad leak. The Walker was at once run aground on the inner side of Minneapolis and before she could be moved to get her out of the water, it was necessary to put her on the dry dock for repairs.

The Present Outlook.

The Outlook. The Outlook speaks as follows of the Duluth & Winnipeg progress to date: "Servers have kept steadily at work and are now equipped at the portage, eight miles up river. Another force of men have been cutting out the right of way. Two hundred men are lodged at the old home, and a greater number are in camp in the vicinity and above. By Monday next fully 1,000 men will be making the dirt fly on this grade. Superintendent Fisher has personally informed us that ten miles of the road will be built, equipped and running between the 1st of January. Thirty-five miles will be graded previous to that time, and the work of grading will be carried on all winter. Mr. Fisher also assured us that there was no gap back to the company. There was no lack of capital, the project had been contemplated, it had been carefully and minutely examined and the order to 'go ahead' would never be rescinded. The company had an abundance of resources and were ready and willing to purchase of the St. Paul & Duluth road their short line from Thompson to Duluth, together with the bridge at Grand Point, and pay that company the full cost of the same, with interest, if interest was demanded. The short line was the cause of Mr. Fisher's disagreement with the St. Paul & Duluth company. All this is good enough for one week in the railroad line.

West Duluth Good Enough.

West Duluth is good enough for me, said a fellow I met on the street a year ago. I bought two lots of Mrs. Brown, for $700 sold them today for $2,000. I have no doubt the man I sold to will make more money than I did, they are getting down to business now.

Amusement will save you from ten to fifteen dollars on every suit or coat you make. You can show yourself a good partner. 331 Opera House block.

CAUGHT IN A STORM.

"We might just as well have been standing behind the counter in New York all these days," sighed Barbara Hale, "for all the out-of-the-way adventures we've had."

"Behind the counter, indeed?" chimed in Mary Vannecker. "Can you breathe in clover scented air like this behind the counter? Can you get the mountain view like this from Sixth avenue? What more would the girl want, I should like to know?"

Barbara sighed once more and shook her head. "It isn't all so tame," she said. "It isn't what I expected at all."

The three girls—Barbara, Dorcas and Mary—were sitting on a side hill under the shade of a grand old cedar tree. Barbara, who had once taken a quarter's lessons in drawing, had a sketch book open on her lap and was trying to draw the scene before her. It must be owned that the lovely ribbon-like curves of the river that wound its way through the valley below.

Mary had her needle work in her lap, and Dorcas, with her hand clapped under her head, had long given up all attempts to read the paper covered novel that she had brought with her.

"The sky and the sunshine are so much better," she said.

Dorcas, the business member of the firm, had bought an excursion ticket first, and traveled out on Superior valley to see what would be done. But it is needless to say that the hotel and boarding house prices were far beyond their simple means.

"Is there no place?" said she, "where we could obtain one room and the very simplest fare for less money?"

"You might try Old Man Morris," said the portly dame who kept the Valley house. "It's a quiet place, and Mrs. Morris she ain't no great big cook, but she's there as has boarded there, I'm told."

"Where is it?" eagerly asked Dorcas.

And the landlady went to the door to point out a slender blue thread of smoke that was curling up heavenward from a mass of woods on the distant hill, and once more Dorcas set forth on her pilgrimage, this time with unlooked success.

She engaged one room. The board, to be sure, was plain, the bed a coarse bunk mattress, with a blanket spread on the floor for Dorcas herself, the furniture home made and unpainted. But there was a grove of pine woods in the rear; the blackbirds piped their silver flutes all day long, and the bees dashed in and out of the red lilacs by the garden wall, and our three heroines believed themselves to be in paradise.

But even as Barbara Hale thus bewitched herself, a portentous shadow swept across the sun, and looking around, they saw that a mass of dark purple thunder clouds had piled themselves up along the western sky, while distant mottling, and now and then a flash of den flash, announced the coming of a storm.

Dorcas sprang to her feet, Barbara began hurriedly to fold up her traveling apparatus, and Mary put her thumb and forefinger in her pocket.

"No, I am camping just where it happens," said Mary. "Then you are poor like us! We are shivering on our vacation."

"For," she said to herself, "I am determined to shall not take us for other than we are."

"And," observed the ghost, "I should think you were having a very jolly time of it. A little more trout, Miss—Hale! And how did you come out in these wildernesses?"

So then, of course, little Barbara, who was generally the spokeswoman of the assembly, related all her efforts to secure summer board.

"You see," said she, "Mr. Archer pays us so small a salary that we haven't much margin for luxury."

"He ought to pay you more," said the ghost. "In business myself, I know how it is. People can't be expected to live on nothing."

"I do believe," cried Dorcas, "you are the tailor's young man from Cut & Fitt's, next door to Archer's! I thought I had seen your face before! But if you ever get to the head of the firm—and a man can achieve almost anything he pleases—do pay your employees a decent salary!"

"I will," said the young man in the white flannel trunks suit, "if he means it."

And then Dorcas, who was still more learned about the rights and wrongs, the injustices and petty trials of life behind the counter.

"We are ladies, you see," said she, "and we expect to be treated like ladies. But I suppose you have your troubles too."

"Lots of 'em," said the young man, gazing absently into the fire. "Every one has, I suppose."

So that they all became great friends. At midnight the rain ceased, and the moon burst in a flood of glory on the dripping scene.

"We can go home now," said Dorcas, clapping her hands. "And I dare say, young man, with a pretty air of patronage, 'Mr. Morris could make you up a bed on the kitchen floor at our house, without charging very much for it.'"

"I should be delighted if he could," said the young man, meekly.

And so it was arranged. The girls made an extra toilet next morning to meet "the ghost," as they called him, at the breakfast table.

But to their infinite disgust he was gone when they awoke.

THE CITY DADS.

THE COUNCIL HOLDS A LENGTHY AND BUSY SESSION AND TRANSACTS CONSIDERABLE BUSINESS.

There was a good attendance at the council chamber last night both of aldermen and citizens, where Clerk Budden read off the minutes of the preceding meeting in his dulcet tones. A communication from Mayor Scaphin informed the council that state health officer Hewitt would be at the meeting of the chamber of commerce this morning and would also speak on sanitation at the Young Men's Republican club headquarters this evening. A committee was appointed to meet him. The board of works reported estimates of contract work done amounting to nearly $9,000, $6,894 of which was on the new city hall. The board also reported that J. D. Ray had been over assessed, and that Johnson & Lundgren had done $5 worth of work that should be charged to the Gas & Water company. Judge of election in the first precinct, fifth ward, asked that better voting quarters be assigned. The comptroller gave notice of certain assessments due from the city and of change in others. Permission was asked to move a frame building along First street.

The Gas & Water company protested against the use of the now completed sewer in Front street, claiming that the ground that it would injure the water supply. It also presented a statement showing that there is no connection between the Duluth and Superior water works, that the reservoir, though not a necessity owing to the nature of the works, is amply large enough, that certain lamps had been unlighted because of changes in location and repairs. Mayor Scaphin then asked if any steps had been taken to perfect the company's charter, this was responded to in the negative and the mayor said that the city should either go ahead in its action or stop altogether so the company would know what to do and be enabled to float its bonds. It was emphatically stated by the treasurer of the company that the company was not now and had not been since the restraining injunctions was served, trying to connect the two places. "The contractor" said he "have come from Toledo and have discharged their men."

A number of estimates of public works were approved and ordered paid, among them $24,100 for McArthur Bros., First street contract; $9,825 for Dwyer's, First street contract; $30,200 for Zimmerman & Moore's Twenty first avenue west grade, and a number of others. Contracts for new sidewalks were made and a storm sewer was ordered built in Garfield avenue at a cost of $724.

A resolution was passed ordering the committee on light and water to visit other cities and examine different systems of electric light. Messrs Dingwall, Thomas and Engler were made a committee to confer with the railroad on bridge, depot and sewer matters. It was agreed to meet and examine the chemical engine brought to town by M. F. Chalk. A motion was made to gravel Michigan street between Front street and Eighteenth avenues but failed of passage.

ON A NAVAL RESERVE.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DEVOTES ITS ATTENTION CHIEFLY TO NAVAL RESERVE FOR LAKES AND OCEAN.

At the regular meeting of the chamber of commerce held this morning but little business was done. The committee on membership reported and the various sub-committees stated new members received. It was reported that the county commissioners had been interviewed regarding the Minnesota point depredations and had promised to stop them. The action of the owners of the little tug Torstar, which devotes nights and Sundays to a systematic steaming from the point, was condemned. Certain important business was made a special order for next week.

Regarding a naval reserve, secretary Phelps reported resolutions which were adopted. Discussions were had on the question, and it was shown that a reserve formed on the plan proposed in Congress would not only be of great benefit to the country at large but would, incidentally, be of great help to Duluth in many ways. The resolution was as follows: Whereas a proposition has been favorably received by commercial bodies to organize a naval reserve for the United States, to be composed of officers in the United States navy, yachtsmen and watermen generally, and of vessels built with reference to their use in time of war as auxiliary to the regular navy, whereas as the Naval Committee of the House of Representatives has unanimously passed a bill providing for the naval reserve, this chamber approves the measure and the Naval Reserve bill and urges its early consideration by congress at its approaching session.

The chamber then adjourned.

THE FAIRS.

At the French fair last night there was the usual large attendance, and much cash realized. The gold headed cane to be given the most popular candidate for county auditor was won by Geo. LaVigne by a total of 270 votes against 142 for Jas. A. Smith. The city and French bands will take supper at the fair this evening.

On Thursday evening the old Turner society will open its fair at the society's elegant hall on Sixth avenue east. A very fine time may be counted on and all should attend.

Interesting to East Side Residents. Mr. Lewis Rose who for a long time was connected with L. Kahn has just gone into business for himself at 403 east Fourth street at the corner of Fourth avenue east.

He has opened with a well chosen stock of Dry Goods, notions and ladies and gents' furnishings. The store is commodious, newly finished and attractive of itself and Mr. Rose has displayed his fresh importations in such a way as to make it exceedingly attractive. For East Enders this store will be a great accommodation on account of location. His stock is well selected—equal to any down town as regards quality and was bought right. He is prepared to give good value to purchasers. His excellent location promises well for his future success. Give the young men your patronage and secure for yourself the benefit of having a store of this kind in your immediate vicinity.

Attention!

Dr. Rev. H. Vibbert, of Boston, Mass., will address the citizens of Duluth on Prohibition at the opera house Thursday evening, Nov. 1st, at 8 o'clock, sharp. Mr. Vibbert is an acknowledged orator. Every one invited especially the ladies. Good music provided.

WEST DULUTH.

The Svea fair, which opened last night at the society's own hall at the West End was largely attended and by a most jolly crowd. It will continue for a week and many elegant articles were exhibited last night which will be raffled off during the week. D. McDonald won a dressing case last night.

The Democrats had a meeting last night in the West End which was fairly well attended. Mr. Erickson of Minneapolis was the speaker.

The French Republicans at this End are well organized and mean to be an important factor in the coming election.

You can buy stoves at cost at Knobloch's, 2022 West Superior street. Call and ask them.

The West End is now supplied with four letter carriers and the work is being admirably done.

C. R. Donnell & Co. are still selling West Duluth lots and report the demand unabated.

The judges and clerks were kept busy all day placing new names on the books.

Mr. Olson's two new tenement houses on Piedmont avenue are completed.

Major Cole will continue his meetings at Nonpareil hall this week.

Stevens the tailor is now located in the hotel Clarendon block.

The Michigan street tunnel is now over two-thirds completed.

Percentage Paid for Betting.

Comparatively few people are aware of the percentage they pay the bookmakers of a race track for the privilege of betting. Common sense teaches that these men, having such large expenses to meet, must have a pretty sure thing on the books, but there are not many who walk up to the stand and place their money who realize the full meaning of their chance. Bookmakers figure to get about 20 per cent. of all the money bet. This, of course, is sometimes varied, according to circumstance, but it is on that basis they arrange their books, and the natural result is that a man who goes to the races with $500 and bets regularly $100 each day, if he should win the same number of bets each day that he loses, the amounts of each bet being fairly averaged, he will find that in about two weeks his $500 has divided away in percentages that the bookmakers have taken.

An average race is about eight horses, and the odds are consequently $7 to $1 against the better. To make an absolutely square book the odds should be so placed that the total would be equal to $64 to $3. Instead of this, however, they are placed to give the bookmaker a clear 20 per cent. This percentage in all gambling has been carefully figured, and it shows that a player cannot hold his own with ordinary good luck pitted against ordinary bad luck; he must have from 20 to 30 per cent. more good luck than bad to keep anywhere near even.—Chicago Herald.

Bank Thieves in America.

"A mob," said the detective, "consists usually of two men. One of them is known as the 'tail' and the other the 'snak.' The cashier, who usually faces the inclosure behind which the clerks are at work, can be made to turn in his chair by the 'tail,' who will pretend to be deaf, and while talking about opening an account will lean over so as to get the cashier's eyes away from the front of the building. In an instant the 'snak,' with a pen behind his ear and ink on his fingers, perhaps wearing an ink office coat, is behind the railing, having entered through the cashier's room. He is skillful in turning rapidly so that his face is not seen, and knowing exactly where the money is located, he covers, he has it under his coat and is out of the inclosure and out of the building before any one knows even that he was there. "There are two of the most expert 'mob' of bank thieves in America at liberty this moment, any member of either of them being fully capable of carrying out just such a crime as I have described. It would not be expedient to make their names public. It is just as easy to rob a bank by the sneak method today as it was fifteen years ago. The only wonder is that there isn't more of it. Your average bank detective would not recognize the king of all bank sneaks who is alive and at liberty today if he walked in and asked the time of day."—New York World.

WEST DULUTH.

WEST DULUTH.
IT IS NOW ACKNOWLEDGED AS THE MANUFACTURING CENTER OF THE NEW NORTHWEST.

A Chicago paper of a few days ago spoke as follows: "The Minnesota Car company, composed of Virginia capitalists with a capital of $400,000, will shortly begin the erection of rolling mills at Duluth, Minnesota." As remarked by the St. Paul Pioneer Press in reference to the item, it is another break in the solid south. With the trifling exception that the Minnesota Car company has already begun active work and that its capital is $500,000, the Chicago paper is correct in its statement. It is also incorrect in the solid south. There have been in the last few years frequent instances of northern and western capital going south, but seldom, if ever, has southern money come north to start great manufacturing enterprises. In this respect Duluth is peculiar and alone. The great advantages possessed by our city, preponderant over all others of cash and over all others of machinery, north or south brought the great Minnesota Car company, an offshoot from the famous Tredegar Iron Works of Richmond, to this city. In this way Duluth people see the surety of other mammoth enterprises soon to locate here and make our city not only the Pittsburgh of the west, but a greater than Pittsburgh, for the country to be supplied with manufactures of iron and steel from Duluth will be vastly greater and more in need than that tributary to Pittsburgh.

Work on the Minnesota Car company's plant is being pushed rapidly notwithstanding the unfavorable weather and will be carried on all winter. It is the intention of the company to be taking contracts for cars by July 1st next and to do this they will of necessity hurry along rapidly. General Manager Tanner left yesterday for the south and east and will, before he returns, contract for the machinery needed. Superintendent Geo. H. White, an able and efficient officer, is in charge and is a man capable in every way of pushing the business along rapidly. Contracts have been made for the lumber, brick, sash and doors and stone for all the buildings, and to the credit of the company be it said all these contracts have been let to home concerns. Large amounts of supplies are already at West Duluth and the Duluth road is building new side tracks to accommodate it. Across the road from the Car company's plant stand the new buildings of the Duluth Iron & Steel company rapidly growing into completion. This company also expects to be in running order by July next and will purchase its great engines and machinery in a few months. It has also given all possible contracts to Duluth foundries and shops. The brick cast house and engine house are both ready for the roof and the brick smokestack is raised to half of its height of 120 feet. All around West Duluth betokens activity and enterprise and a busy year is promised there.

Every store in the Allan block is rented. James Brown is at the West End from St. Paul.

George Cobb, of Brainerd contemplates looting in the West End.

Attorney Sherwood made an able speech at the Swan fair last night.

The Dickerman block has nearly reached the level of Michigan street.

Rev. Father Timothy is entertaining the very Rev. Father Edelbrock.

The West End sent out about fifty voters for the Prohibition parade last evening.

Dr. Magie and McNelly have returned from a successful hunting trip at Sand Lake.

You can buy staves at cost at Knobloch's, 2022 West Superior street. Call and ask them.

Look out for a big turn out of West End Republicans in the parade for tomorrow night. They mean business and will help swell the vote.

The contest for the dressing case at the Swan fair last evening made things lively for a time. The two contestants, Miss Von Baskirk and Miss Johnson have many friends who worked hard for them and the voting was spirited all through the evening. At the close it was found that Miss Von Baskirk was the victor and she was presented with the handsome gift. The fair continues tonight and good music will be in attendance.

MATTERS POLITICAL.

Chas. d'Aumont is to speak to-night. Ed. Sherwood made an able speech at the West End last night.

Get yourself ready to turn out in the Republican parade to-morrow night.

Be at the polls at 9 o'clock in the morning prompt and cast your vote before it is too late.

Election returns will be received by Sawyer & Davis at their room No. 15 east Superior street.

The Democrats have arrangements all made for their parade and election to E. M. Wilson to-night.

A meeting has been called by some of the judges for the purpose of having all the judges of election meet together tonight at the municipal court room and debate on certain laws.

A large number of business houses and residences will be illuminated to-morrow night in honor of the grandest and greatest Republican demonstration ever held in St. Louis county.

An admission of twenty-five cents will be charged to the opera house Tuesday night to hear the election returns read. Mr. Condon has a wire pinned on the stage and an operator will be in constant attendance.

The grandest demonstration ever held in Duluth will be that of the Republicans to-morrow night. Marshal J. B. Stigheim and aides Kendall and Stenson, will see to it that everything is properly arranged for the line of march. After the procession United States Senator C. K. Davis and other speakers will address an audience at the opera house. Everybody turn out and witness the parade and then go and hear the speeches.

The following are the judges of the First ward, Julius E. Wieland, James W. Campbell, Chas. A. Banks, Second ward, A. E. Longstreet, E. R. Brace, Wm. Shupp, First precinct Third ward, E. Johnson, L. L. Frazer, T. M. Helinski, Second precinct, J. E. Cooley, J. R. Carey, C. C. Wieland, Third precinct, Geo. F. Ash, C. A. Johnson, J. D. E. Carlier, First precinct Fourth ward, R. S. Simball, H. A. ON 'CHANGE.

A DULL AND VERY IRREGULAR MARKET ON THE DULUTH BOARD OF TRADE TODAY.

Wheat has been dull and irregular here today, with a very fair volume of trading. The opening was 3/4 below last night's close but the market at once hardened up and advanced steadily for a time, after which a break in outside prices and lower quotations with orders to sell knocked it off considerably. Other markets recovered later from the break but Duluth was plunged too full of selling orders and could not get over the slump, slow feeling. The close was dull and heavy at prices slightly above the opening. There was little of news or few features on the market though there was more disposition to line over the wheat than for some time.

Cash wheat was again active, 1 hard sold at 125, and 124 to arrive later, while 1 northern went at 119 and later at 118 to arrive, 2 northern of 108 1/2, and No. 3 at 98. November was nominal at the close 125 with no sales. December opened late unchanged from yesterday's close at 124, advanced to 125 1/2, fell to the opening price, fluctuated above 1, and closed at 124 1/2 with sales. May opened 3/4 off from yesterday at 129 1/2, advanced to 131 1/2, fell off to 130 and sold at 130 1/2, advanced, and closed at 130 1/2.

CORN NOTES.

Today's Northwestern Miller gives the flour business as follows: The grind was the largest in seven weeks; total production was 135,000 barrels against 130,100 barrels for the previous week and 167,100 for the corresponding time last year. Two mills, representing a daily capacity of 4,000 barrels, shut down this week, and more promise to be closed soon. Although wheat keeps going up, flour is unsalable, and there is no other alternative for millers but to stop grinding. Government reservoirs up north closed November 1st and as they are supplying about 50 per cent of the water, this has a decided effect on the power of the mills. The flour market continues very dull, with millers inclined to ask more to offset the advance in wheat. While a few straggling orders have been taken by bakers at about 25c 64, the export trade continues without any life. The direct exports last week were 20,700 barrels, against 20,800 for the preceding week. Part of this was on old orders, and some of it went to Canada.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS.

THE THIRD OF THE HARBOR IMPROVEMENT.

CONTRACTS LET YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Major Quinn, chief of engineers of the Duluth district, let the contract for extending the Agate Bay breakwater 150 feet. There were eight bidders as follows: D. W. Towell and Ed. Mitchell, Marquette, $14,008; Chas. Berner, Green Bay, $13,562; N. C. Chapman, Minneapolis, $13,357; Meinling & Partner, Duluth, $20,350; Thos. Dwyer, Duluth, $12,449; Hugh Steele, Duluth, $14,840; William St. Amour, Duluth, $14,430; J. C. Morrison, Duluth, $18,136. The job was let to Thos. Dwyer for $12,449. It includes the building of a foundation, sub-structure and superstructure of 150 feet in length forming an extension to the present breakwater of Two Harbors and is in line with the plan of work laid out for the improvement of that harbor. Dwyer's figures were as follows: Foundation 100 feet long, 30 feet wide $27.75 per running foot, 50 feet long 34 feet wide $73.37 per foot; crib work substructure 100 feet long 20 feet wide $25.04 per foot, 50 feet long 24 feet wide $40.16 per foot; superstructure 100 feet long 20 feet wide $12.65 per foot, 50 feet long 24 feet wide $25.77 per foot. Contracts for Duluth harbor, Grand Marais, Michigan, Marquette, Ashland and other points will be ready to push in the spring. The Agate Bay job is the only one that will be under way during all winter.

"HERE'S TO YOU."

THE PROHIBITIONISTS TURN OUT IN A MODERATE SIZED PARADE.

About one hundred men and the usual number of young Americans formed a procession last night and marched up and down Superior street, using the sidewalks as in the street there was too much water. Nearly all the marchers carried torches, loaned by their friends the Democrats, and the French band added much to the attraction by discoursing some good music. After tramping for a half hour they went to the Grand opera house where they had already congregated several of the cold water men who were afraid to go out in the inclement weather. Rev. George Vibbert was introduced to the audience by Chas. E. Shannon and he addressed those present in a manner that certainly was exciting and full of fire. He abused Jim Blaine and the Republican party and this so tickled some of the hearers that they exhibited courage enough to applaud. To sum up, what the preacher-politician said, would be impossible. It was a harangue of stuff that cut no figure last night and will have less effect next Tuesday.
